MINERS' STRIKE EXPECTED ON APRIL FIRST

Leaders Said to be Opposed and to Fear Walk-out

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

Union Heads Will go Directly to Public With Their Case, Seeking Sympathy.

Indianapolis, Feb 15.—Making due allowance for the fact that the leaders of the United Mine Workers do not want a strike and fear one, and making due allowance for the value of the conservative position taken when they gathered Monday, there is no escaping the fact tonight after the first day of the miners' convention, that there is a very difinate and concrete foundation for the fears expressed in weeks past of a general coal strike in April.

If the report submitted yesterday to the convention by the scale committee, which, as forecast, recommended a demand for continuance of the present soft coal wages, is adopted—and that is altogether probable—it is difficult to see how a strike can be escaped unless the operators in the Central compititive field change their policy, at least to the extent of meeting the miners' representatives in joint conference.

The leaders plan of action, embodied in the report of the scale committee leads straight to a strike unless the operators agree to meet in joint conference or unless the mass of miners vote to stay at work on the terms of the operators. The latter alternative is not considered at all possible by the best informed men in this convention. It would mean demoralization of the union, and few believe the men are ready at this time to stay at that price.

With this program framed, leading to a strike unless the operators make some concessions, it became clearer than ever, following the submission of the report of the scale committee, that the leaders of the miners' organization are playing with all the skill they possess for the favor of public opinion. They realize keenly their need for it in the contest just ahead with the operators over wage scales, and they realize even more keenly the need they will have of it, if the wage scale contest ends in a strike.

There is this difference in that phase of the situation, as it develops today, from the apparent situation yesterday: Then, it seemed probable that there would be an appeal to President Harding to make the operators negotiate and come to terms. Today, it appears plainly that the leaders place little hope in the President or in Secretary Hoover, who would advise him, and are going straight to the people.

These are the stages in the miners' leaders' plans:

1 Demand for continuance of the present soft coal wages for a two-year period, beginning April 1, based on the contention that the miners cannot live on less, and that the industry can afford the wages.

2. Demand that the operators meet the miners in joint conference to consider the wage scale, as in the past, and in accord with what is described as "the agreement honorably made," on March 31, 1920, to hold such a conference.

3. In event of continued refusal of the operators, to meet the miners in conference, or of failure in such a conference to reach an agreement, then a strike, but—

4. Before the strike may be called, there must be a referendum on the question of the membership of the United Mine Workers of America, to be held prior to March 31. This referendum is to convince the country that if a strike is called, it will be a miners' and not a leaders strike.

All of that applies to the soft-coal fields. In the hard-coal fields the recommendation of the scale committee is that the decision reached at the miners' convention in Shamokin in January—to demand 20 per cent. increase and $1 a day increase for day workers—be supported with the power of the main organization.

White Way is Approved By Common Council

Ordinance Adopted Last Night By a Vote of 11 to 3

ALDERMEN TO ACT

Board to Meet Friday—Ordinance Provides for Illumination of Seven Squares—$85,0000 for School

This city soon will have a white way on King street between Fairfax and Patrick streets, a distance of seven squares, common council last night having adopted the measure by a vote of 11 to 3. Under the rules the ordinance has to lie over three days in the board of aldermen The aldermen will hold an adjourned meeting Friday night when action will be taken. It is understood that the measure will be adopted by the aldermen. Just as soon as this is done the actual work of construction will be begun.

When the ordinance was presented in common council the first vote taken was 10 for the ordinance and 4 against it, those voting for the ordinance being Messrs. Ticer, Matter, Downham, Desmond Reed, Drewry, Baggett, Sullivan, Lawler and Fletcher; against the ordinance. McCaffrey, Ballenger, Devers and Burke.

President Burke first held the ordinance lost on the ground that it required a two third vote and subsequently he looked up the rules and announced that a majority vote was sufficient for its passage and there upon he changed his vote to aye thus giving the ordinance 11 votes Councilman Fletcher held it was not lost and read the rules which proved it was not lost.

The ordinance provides for a contract with the Alexandria County Lighting Company for a period of fourteen years, ending January 25, 1936, for forty-two lamps located on both sides of King street, six on each square, three being to each side from Fairfax to Patrick streets and four at each corner except at Fairfax and Patrick streets and the city to pay the Alexandria County Lighting Company at the rate of $52 a year on lights burning from dusk till midnight and $72 on those burning from midnight to dawn based on

PRESIDENT WILL GIVE CONGRESS VIEWS ON BONUS

He Is Expected to Recommend Postponement for Another Year

REPUDIATES PLANS

Is Opposed to Bond Issue and to all Suggested New Forms of Taxes For Revenue

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Harding either will recommend to Congress a further postponement of soldier bonus legislation or will suggest means of raising the necessary money not now under consideration by fiscal committees of the House and Senate.

The Administration's policy for dealing with what has developed into the most embarrassing and bewildering problem of the last year will be set forth concretely in a communication which Mr. Harding expects to lay before the joint committee of Congress, now in a state of utter indecision regarding the bonus business.

This committee, of members of the Finance and Ways and Means Committees, held another fruitless session yesterday and adjourned to await receipt of the President's memorandum. No progress was made at the Capitol toward solution of the bonus issue The bonus situation again caused debate on the Senate floor and Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, assailed the Republican leaders for "passing the buck" to the President in their present dilemma, and Senator Tom Watson, of Georgia, replied to Senator Borah's speech of Monday.

Before announcing informally that he would transmit his views in writing to the committee, the President with positiveness, repudiated every plan that had been publicly proposed for financing "deferred compensation" for former service men.

He let it be known first of all that he was uncompromisingly opposed to an issue of Government bonds, that is an increase in the public debt in order to provide the bonus money.

At the same time he let it be known that he could not consent to the forms of taxation which the joint committee had considered, following suggestions from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. He rejected also the proposal that such abandoned sources of revenue as profits and higher incomes be levied upon once more.

Previously the President had put his foot down upon the proposal that the former service men be compensated from money which foreign governments owe the United States. Mr. Harding let it be understood then that to promise war veterans payment from money not collected or collectible would constitute a species of legislative fraud.

All plans which Congress has originated or has seized upon for raising the money needed having been bowled over, the legislative branch is looking to the President to provide the substitute or to point the way to retreat. It seems certain that he is about ready to do one or the other

The most decisive move on the part of the President was to overrule the proposal which originated in the joint committee for the issuance of bonds, using the proceeds for paying the bonus. Mr. Harding emphatically disapproved this. In 15 months, he reminded visitors, $6 000,000,000 of war time securities will mature. They must be redeemed or refunded, he said. Neither process should be complicated by the issue of more obligations whether for long or short terms.

Whereas, while the war lasted, he pointed out, it was possible to float Government bonds in great volume and at a low rate of interest, this cannot be done in time of peace Bonds issued now will only be absorbed if interest rates are increased and to do this would disturb the whole financial market of the country.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Feb. 15.—The State of Virginia scored a great victory at the White House today when it was announced that the contract for reconditioning the former German liner Leviathan would be awarded to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. The bid of this concern, amounting to $6,787,000 and which was submitted to the U. S. Shipping Board some weeks ago, was the lowest one received. Immediately after the amounts of the bids were received, Senator Lodge, of Mass., Republican floor leader and close personal friend of President Harding, endeavored to have the work done at the Boston Navy Yard. Lodge is a candidate for re-election and hoped to pull this firm in his stand that the government should accept the lowest bid received for the work, declaring at the same time that the administration was opposed to the United States that he did not intend to use his office as Chief Executive to favor any particular section of the country on matters of this character. The work to be done at the Virginia port will mean a good deal to those men who were recently laid off because of the lack of work there.

President Harding was remarking about the wonders of the wireless telephone which has been installed in the White House. He stated that Mrs. Harding and himself had heard a wonderful band concert only the other night, while seated in the House.

"I am convinced that Edison was right," commented the President to the newspaper men, "when he said that 'if ants ever talk we'll hear them.' "

President Harding threw a bombshell into the ranks of the Republican leaders yesterday afternoon when he declared himself as unalterably opposed to the raising of sufficient money to pay the soldiers' bonus through a sale of bonds He also declared that he would oppose the raising of money to pay the bonus through additional taxation or through the imposition of those taxes which have already been removed through the action of Congress.

Senators and Representatives on Capitol Hill who were counting on the President's aid in this matter were very much alarmed today. They were willing to saddle any kind of a proposition on the country to pay for the bonus in the hope that they would be re-elected. Now, however, that their President has come out so forcibly against any sort of a bonus plan at this time, they are wondering what is to be their fate. Incidentally, Democratic hopes have arisen about 100 per cent. since the President took his stand in the matter, and all political indications point to the election of a Democratic House next November. Even the Republicans will privately admit this.

Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of the former British Premier, now on a lecture tour in this country, saw the President yesterday. After her

LAMOND HEADS Y. M. C. A. FOR THIRD YEAR

Officers Elected at Meeting Last Night at Chamber of Commerce

TO NAME CHAIRMEN

Election of Members of Board to Serve For Next Three Years Confirmed.

C. C. Lamond was elected president of the Alexandria Young Men's Christian Association at a special meeting of the board of directors held at the Chamber of Commerce last night. This signal honor has come to Mr. Lamond for the third time and is a direct testimonial of the high esteem in which he is held by every member of the board. He had thought to retire but quickly acceded to the unanimous request of the board that he continue as the Association's head.

Mr. Lamond was the first president elected when the association was organized in Alexandria just after the war and has the unique satisfaction of having never missed a single board meeting since his election. The officers elected with Mr. Lamond were first vice president, Judge J. K. M. Norton; second vice president, C. C. Carlin; recording secretary, Samuel W. Pitts, and treasurer, Carroll Pierce.

The president will announce the chairman of the various standing committees at the next regular meeting of the board. These committees are physical, educational, boy's work, religious, economics, social, foreign work, and finance. The chairmen will then make up their own committees and these are a large factor in determining the activities of the Association for the coming year.

The election of the members of the board to serve for the next three years was also confirmed at the meeting last night. Those elected to serve until 1925 were Chas. F. Holden, John G. Graham, Chas. B. Swan, W. S. Risdon, J. Robert Tomlin, Arthur H. Bryant, and Rev. Dr. Percy Foster Hall. The last three named gentlemen are new members of the board, the others having been re-elected.

The board members serving until 1924 are C. C. Lamond, U. S. Lambert, Judge J. K. M. Norton, C. C. Carlin, Carroll Pierce, Gardner L. Boothe and Samuel Pitts, while those retiring in 1923 are E. A. Feldtkeller, Harry B. Caton, N. S. Greenaway, R. E. Knight, William Campbell, Chas. E. Dare and J. E. W. Timberman.

DIVORCE ORDER MEETS APPROVAL

Judge Satisfied Practice Will be Reduced and Result Beneficially

Attorneys to be Better Protected From Imposition by Litigants and Lawyers

It is the belief of many in this city that the divorce practice here will be practically revolutionized by the action of Judge Moncure in establishing a rule of the coruoration court which embodies the spirit and substance of the bill drafted by the committee investigating divorce conditions and which is now pending in the State Legislature.

Judge Moncure issued this order yesterday afternoon and but for a few minor changes in the language and the elimination of the provision preventing the issuance of a divorce decree until three monthes after the institution of a suit, it is substantially the same as the committee's pending bill.

The Judge is satisfied that his order will reduce the divorce practice, and will make it more difficult for persons to obtain a divorce and that the results will be generally beneficial to the community and the commonwealth. He believes also that members of the bar and the court itself will, as a result of this rule, be better protected from imposition by litigants anxious to obtain a divorce and who in the past because of the indefinitteness of the law have been able to take advantage of their attorneys and the court.

Fairfax Supervisors Sign Road Contract

All That Remains is For Alexandria City Council to Act

PAY HALF OF INTEREST

Proposition Now Before City Council —Will be $15,000 a Year For Five Years—May Hold Special Meeting.

The board of supervisors of Fairfax county yesterday afternoon signed the contract with the state highway commission for the construction of the Little River Turnpike road between Alexandria and Fairfax Courthouse, a distance of fourteen niles. Mayor J. M. Duncan, of this city attended the meting when the final papers were signed.

All that remains to be done is for the city council of Alexandria to adopt the resolutions now pending providing that the city pay one-half of the interest charges not to exceed $15,000 a year for a period of five years.

Just as soon as the city conucil acts on the measure it is stated that bonds will be issued and bids for the work asked for and it is probable that the work will be started not later than April 1.

The next regular meeting of the city council will not be held till February 28. It is however, regarded as highly probable that a special meeting of the city council will be called for the purpose on acting on the measure in order that the work may not be delayed.

The construction of this road will open up the Valley of Virginia to Alexandria, and practically by the time of its completion give an excellent roadway all the way from Alexandria to Winchester, Va. News that the supervisors had agreed to the contract was received with general satisfaction by the merchants and business interests generally of this City.

The chamber of commerce of this city for a long time past has been working assidiously in behalf of the construction of this road and now their efforts are about to be crowned with sucess. Its members feel gratified with their work.

IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:10 p. m., until 12 o'clock today.

Passed the bill creating a bureau of aeronautics in the Department of Commerce.

Senator McCormick, of Illinois, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaiggn committee, in a speech set forth Republican achievements as a reply to a recent speech by James M. Cox, of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

The Washington arms conference, he said, had done "more for peace and against war than has the league of nations during all the twelve months of its existence."

Taking up the economic situation, Senator McCormick declared that Europe must settle her political difference, reduce her armis and retrench her expenditures before the United States can grant her new credits.

Senator Watson (Democrat), Ga., attacked the ways and means committee plan for financing the proposed soldier bonus, and insisted that England and France be required to pay enough of their debt to meet the bonus cost.

In a brief speech Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, condemned Associate Justice Clarke, of the Supreme Court, for making a speech recently in which he advocated cancellation of American and other war debts.

In confromity with his recent report on the West Virginia mine troubles, Senator Kenyon introduced a bill to provide for the settlment of disputes in the coal mining industry and to establish a board for the adjustment of such disputes and to stabilize conditions of production.

Hearings on the offer of Henry Ford to lease the Muscle Shoals project will begin before the agriculture committee tomorrow morning.

The interstate commerce committee ordered a favorable report on a bill which would amend the railroad valuation act of 1913 so as to relieve the Interstate Commerce Commission of the duty of ascertaining and reporting separately the excess of cost of present condemnation or of purchase over either original or present value.

HOUSE

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:30 p. m, until noon today.

Continued consideration of the Interior Department appropriation bill under the five minute rule.

Trust and safe keeping departments of national banks would be brought under the supervision of the comptroller of the currency under a bill introduced by Chairman McFadden, of the banking committee.

A bill extending the 3 per cent restrictive immigration law until June 30, 1923, was ordered favorably reported by the immigration committee.

Purchase by the United States of all Canadian territory south and east of the St. Lawrence with the right to develop and utilize half of the water power from the river, is proposed in a resolution introduced by Mr. Ten Eyck (Democrat), New York.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz, chief of naval operations before the naval affairs committee supported Secretary Denby's plea that the strength of the navy be not reduced below 90,000 and said that the 100 destroyers that will be placed wholly out of commission to meet such a reduction will deteriorate to a greater or less extent while laid up.

The military affairs committee continued hearings on the Muscle Shoals project proposed lease. Dr Richard C. Tolman, of the Agricultural Department, informing the committee that Secretary Wallace had authorized him to say the department believed "that farmers would be benefitted" by operation of the plant for manufacture of fertilizer, as proposed by Henry Ford.

IRISH OFFICIALS CLAIM ORDER IS PLAY TO FOES

Many Fear That Stay of Troops Will Help Enemies

CALL IT "MEDDLING"

Opinion Is That Local Commanders Refused to Take Risk Involved in Departure of Troops.

Dublin, Feb. 15.—The British Government's cessation of military evacuation has caused great apprehension here, as it is thought by many leading Irishmen that this act plays directly into the opponents of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Prompt fulfilment of the London's Government's promise to evacuate Southern Ireland had created the general impression here that the British were acting in good faith, and that the powers granted to South Ireland by the treaty were real

The handing over to the Irish of the barracks, and their occupation by troops of the Republican party had a siilar effect. The interruption in evacuation is considered in many quarters as indicating a decided change of front on the part of the British Cabinet.

It is not believed that the military authorities in Dublin are responsible for the move. It was learned yesterday that the Cabinet was not supposed by the Provisional Government to have been consulted on the suspension of evacuation, and Michael Collins takes the view that it is a fresh example of meddling by the War Office. "acting in the old spirit."

One explanation offered here for the suspension of evacuation is that in view of recent incidents in Southern Ireland, the local commanders refused to take the risk to the men and equipment that would be involved in the departure of the troops Mr. Collins places the responsibility on Eamonn de Valera's campaign of resistance to the Provisional Government.

Entertainment Coming

On Friday evening in the Young Peoples' Building another of the delightful programs of the Lyceum course, brought here under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church South, will be given. All of the preceding entertainments have been of a high order and everyone who has attended has been well repaid. They are, well worthy of public patronage The artists who appear in the numbers have had a large share of experience and success in their work and display a high order of talent. The next entertainment will be in charge of the Kellam-Lowrey Duo and will consist of readings and impersonations by one of the best performers on the Lyceum stage. Music will be furnished by a coloratura soprano, who plays, besides, the piano-accordeon and piano. It is hinted that there will also be mandolin and violin music. The program is varied, containing amusing, as well as entertaining elements. Taken all in all, this will be an exceptional entertainment and one that the average city audience should revel in.

Tickets may be had at the door, as usual, or from the ladies of the Missionary Society. Keep the date in mind, Friday, February 17th, 8 p. m. in the Young People's Building.

CUT IN ARMIES TO BE URGED BY THE BRITISH

Lloyd George Plans to Force Topic at Genoa Conference

IGNORED BY FRENCH

British Premier is Urged to Take the Public Into His Full Confidence As To Plans

Paris, Feb. 15.—It is no secret—except from the great French public—that the big issue at the Genoa Conference, wether it be held on scheduled date or postponed, will be neither reparations, stabilization of exchange economic equilibrium or war debts. The overwhelming important thing there will be the reduction of land armaments.

Further, it is no secret—except again, from the French public—that the British are preparing a land army reduction plan which will be sprung when the conference opens. Every well-informed politician in France and England knows these two things. Every Prime Minister in Europe knows them. In fact wide spread publicity has been given them in an influencial section of the English press.

Yet the French politicians and the French newspapers daily discuss every angle and every othe possible question that can arise at Genoa except this one. So complete and conspicuous is the omission from all the hundreds of articles and editorials that crowd the French press of any reference to the fact that the reduction of military forces is bound to be the pivot at Genoa that the conclusion is forced that there is a definite policy not to discuss it.

Morning and evening the necessity of postponing the conference is dwelt upon, the complicity of the economic questions involved is pointed out and many other matters are stressed, but the fact that the British have a, disarmament plan, and that they are now engaged in lining up behind it in other European nations is not touched upon.

In English circles it is asserted that all Europe is ready for a sound disarmament scheme except France. France, they say, knows perfectly well that this will be not only the biggest but the first question at Genoa, but this is a question which neither Poincare, in his note, nor the Paris press touches on in the fight to stave off the conference.

If France will face the disarmament question, she need not, the English say worry about her other apprehensions. They will be taken care of, it is asserted, and no French rights will be infringed upon.

Various efforts in various newspapers on the other side of the Channel are made made to forecast Premier Lloyd-George's disarmament plan, but without much success. It is said his desire is to make the announcement at Genoa in much the same way that Secretary Hughes announced the naval reduction plan at Washington. He is, however, being strongly urged to cast aside secrecy and tell the details now, in order to mobilize back of the effort the public opinion of the world

CLUBWOMEN MEET

Interesting Address By President of Woman's City Club

Mrs. Lyman Beecher Swormstedt, president of the Woman's City Club of Washington, addressed the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at its February meeting held last night in the chamber of commerce auditorium. Mrs Swormstedt is a clever and interesting talker and held the interest of her audience throughout.

The meeting opened at 7 o'clock with a supper presided over by Miss Lucy M. Graves, president, and served by a committee of members under the direction of Miss Corinne T. Reardon. The decorations were in honor of St. Valentine, hearts appearing in abundance and the color scheme of red carried out in decorations and refreshments. The attractive waitresses wore aprons trimmed with hearts.

Miss Nancy King, of Rosemont, gave a greatly enjoyed recitation and this number with the speaker of the evening composed the program of entertainment, as the club had an unusual number of business matters to consider. The March meeting will be held with a minimum of business and an entire evening of social intercourse

The names of a number of applicants for membership were received, but with only five vacancies on the list the first five applications were favorably considered and those elected to membership were Mrs. Nellie V. Ramey, Mrs. Elizabeth Keegan, Miss Anne E. Moncure, Dr. Kate Waller Barrett and Miss Elizabeth M. King.

CLASS IN CIVICS

The course in "Citizenship and Virginia Government," under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., begins Friday Evening, 17th, instant, at 8 p. m., at the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Elizabeth Pidgeon is to be the instructor for the series of lectures, and that she is fully equipped for the task goes without saying. She is a member of the University of Virginia Extension Staff and has attained a wide reputation for thorough mastery of her subject.

The course consists of 16 two hour lectures on Friday and Monday of each week which would run, therefore, for about two months or until the middle of April. Included in the course are such subjects as County Government in Virginia, How a Law is Passed, The Constitution of Our State, The Making of the National Constitution, The Duties of the Virginia Governor etc.

The regular University fee for each person will be $5.00. A minimum enrollment of ten is desired. For those not wishing full attendance at the classes, a fee of $4.00 may be arranged for a maximum of ten lectures. Any member of the course is at liberty to bring any friends to single lectures when desired.

It is to be hoped that the enrollment will be large as the subject-matter is one that should interest our entire citizenship. Its value in educating the voter to an intelligent comprehension of his franchise is hardly to be overestimated.

PETITION PRESIDENT

We published in our news columns of yesterday the resolutions presented by Dr. Martin, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church on last Sunday. These resolutions seem to us both timely and welcome, and were unanimously passed by the congregation. The sentiment and phrasing are particularly felicitous. The Church has a proper interest in a matter so important to hundreds of our fellow-citizens, and it is right to give it public expression. The pious wish expressed at the conclusion of the resolutions cannot but appeal to the President, to whom they are addressed, and will meet with the full approval of those who believe that at all times Divine Guidance should be sought in matters that so nearly approach a public calamity.

NATIONAL PUBLICITY FOR ALEXANDRIA

The Gazette, in pursuance of plans long contemplated, is preparing a mammoth edition to be published the latter part of March, to be known as its "National Publicity" number. It has in mind an edition of some forty or more pages, with an extra circulation of several thousand, at least fifteen hundred of which will be sent to each Chamber of Commerce in the United States. Besides this, selected lists are being prepared by competent authority, to reach the farming classes within market distance of Alexandria, their proper and legitimate trading point.

There will be write-ups of Alexandria, illustrated, touching upon every phase of its social, industrial, and historic aspects. The unique advantages of this city as a residence place, as a manufacturing point, and as a wholesale and retail trade center, will be fully exploited and set forth. Our deep-water front, accessible to the Seven Seas; our nearness to inexhaustible coal-fields; our railroad transportation facilities; our proximity to raw materials of every description; these will be emphasized in such manner as to compel attention.

When we say that Alexandria is at a critical stage of her ever-memorable history, we do not mean so much any impending trade or financial crisis as we do that she is at the parting of the ways. She must determine and decide this good year of 1922, as to whether she is to remain stagnant and stationary, or whether she is to assume her proper rank among the progressive cities of the United States. Nature has been prolific in her magnificent endowments. But nature is inert matter; it remains for the hand of man to make opportunity fluid and sweeping in its onward flood of accomplishment. We have everything at our door that enterprise and ambition could ask. It needs but an indomitable spirit on our own part to seize it and create the wealth that is rightfully ours.

The one thing Alexandria lacks at present is intelligent publicity. We do not need to exaggerate or paint with the colors of the rose. A sober, conservative statement of actualities as they exist here and now, is sufficient to attract capital and population as never before. A country lies to the south of us, on both sides of the Potomac that is blessed with a climate and soil unsurpassed in the world. This now dormant territory, crying for means of transportation, a hundred miles of it, with thousands upon thousands of idle and fallow acres, lacks only the steamer and the tug and the barge, to pour its riches into the lap of Alexandria. Nature created the broad and majestic river; but man must provide the keel to plow it. Think of thousands of people, in this day and this age, dwelling along its shores forty to sixty miles from a railroad, living in an enforced idleness because we here in Alexandria have been asleep to our almost inestimable privileges in extending to them a helping hand.

The Gazette has resolved to start the procession by its mammoth National Publicity Edition, which will certainly advertise our city as it has never been advertised before. Our representatives will soon be active among the business interests of the city, who will explain in more detail the plans for publicity. The edition will be the largest and handsomest ever put forth in northern Virginia, and needs only the support and co-operation of the citizenship in whose interests the Gazette is laboring.

One of the worthy presidents of our Chamber of Commerce brought back a healthful and inspiring slogan from the great city by the lakes, not long since. We have adopted it for our own. It is: "DO IT AND DO IT NOW!"

(For The Gazette)

It was fitting, indeed that at the recent exhibit in this city, Thomas Sully should have been represented by a copy of the original of his most distinctive work namely Queen Victoria in her coronation robes, for no collection in this country where the artistic and antique were featured would be quite complete without a memento of him as this picture, without doubt, brought him most fame as well as money, the history of it is well worth remembering.

Shortly after Victoria ascended the throne, the Sons of St. George, a society in Philadelphia of Britons, desired to have a portrait of the queen, and Sully was selected for the task. When the queen signified her willingness to pose, she, at the same time, extended an invitation to the artist to make Windsor his home while the picture was in progress. This he did, taking with him his young daughter of about the same age and size as the queen, which turned out to be a fortunate circumstance, for after several poses, when the most important features were worked in, Miss Sully stood the rest of the time in the queen's stead. Six months later, when the picture was finished and the artist and his daughter were ready to sail for home, the queen presented to latter a diamond ring and an autograph letter in recognition of her kindness. Sully's picture, "Washington Crossing The Delaware" did not have such happy associations.

He was commissioned by the Legislature of South Carolina to paint a portrait of Washington to hang in their Assembly Hall. The artist suggested that Washington be portrayed in some important event where he had figured, and the result was the historic trip over the river. When the picture was completed the Legislature declined to accept it as being unavailable for the space which had been allotted to it. I believe it eventually found its way to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and it is highly probable that South Carolina's loss has been the world's gain, for hanging in a public gallery, many have enjoyed it that otherwise would never have seen it. The writer not long since visiting Independence Hall, was much impressed with his full length portrait of La Fayette in the simple costume of a gentleman without the trappings of war or rank or any other insignia, that sometimes hide the real man. It was to me like looking for, the first time upon the face of the friend of Washington. I think it was his contemporary, Gilbert Stuart, with whom Sully differed in theories and methods of working, for instance, one held that a perfect reproduction of the nose was very essential to make an accurate likeness. The other on the contrary considered the mouth the most important feature.

Resume Enlistments

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15.—The Marine Corps has again opened its ranks to reenlistments from the army and navy and also to the acceptance of men who have had no prior military service. In recent months enlistments in the Marine Corps were restricted exclusively to former marines although men with excellent records in the sister services have been applying at the recruiting offices for the honor of "doing a hitch" with the leathernecks.

A fixed quota of 600 recruits has been set by Major General John A. Lejeune, Commandant of the Corps, and this comparaitvely small number will enable the recruiting officers of the Corps to continue the policy of hand picked selection from the applicatins that will follow the removal of the past restriction.

Extract From Governor Trinkle's Inaugural Address Concerning Reorganization of the Highway Department

Next to schools and health, unquestionably the thing now uppermost in the minds of the people of the State is the development of our State and and county highway systems.

Certainly nothing could give me greater pride during the four years of my administration than to feel that I had been able to play an humble part in the advancement of a ready and convenient means of transportation for our people in order that they may better enjoy a closer acquaintanceship and have an economical way of conveying their products to the market.

The times in which we now live demand that Virginia have a modern highway system, and we must fully recognize that the day of impassable and badly constructed roads should no longer be tolerated. The quickness of our State growth along all lines is to be greatly measured by the speed which we develop in our highway construction work. Therefore, we are led to the conclusion that our road program must be one that calls for as rapid construction as may be consistent with economical and businesslike administration.

During the last twelve months, it has been my privilege to visit some ninety of the one hundred counties in Virginia, as well as the twenty-two cities. I have spoken before thousands of Virginia people and have consulted with hundreds of them respecting our road development. I do feel that I certainly have a reasonable knowledge of what the people demand.

It is my duty, as your Governor, to place before you the conclusions that have been reached concerning the needs and wishes of our people, so as to secure their actice support of a really constructive road program.

In my anxiety to test out the suggestions that I am going to make relative to the new law that should be written for the formation of the Highway Department, I have consulted with expert roadbuilders from other States, and with a great many of our leading and, in my judgment, wise-thinking patriotic Virginia citizens, all free of any known political ambitions. That the people may know my endeavor to seek competent advice and help in accordance with my pre-election promise has been an honest one, I may say that, in addition to many other conferences, on Tuesday, January 17, I conferred with thirty-two prominent business men from all walks of life and from all sections of Virginia, who were selected with no other thought than their outstanding reputation as cautious and clearthinking men.

After a full and thorough discussion, the recommendations as to reorganization of the department which I now make were unanimously indorsed by this body of representative citizens.

I trust that I may be pardoned for stating that, as the chief executive of the State, I realize that the people look to me for results; and this means that I am intensely interested in the formation of this department. I further realize that it becomes my duty to meet this situation with no thought other than what I conceive to be the best interest of the State, and not to take counsel of any fear I may have that my recommendations may displease any individual or individuals who may be in some degree personally affected.

In other words, the question of a properly organized Highway Department is one of far greater importance than the effect of a reorganization upon any person or persons.

The plan which I shall outline in no way prevents the State from retaining in its service any or all of the skill and information that the present Highway Department has, if this skill and information is such that it is deemed wise for all, or any part of it, to be retained by reappointment.

My recommendations are as follows:

1. Being led to the firm conclusion that the people of Virginia demand a complete reorganization of our present Highway Department, I therefore suggest that this department, as at present organized, cease to function as of July, next.

2. Whether justifiable or not, the fact remains that the people are not satisfied with the present plan of handling our road development, and the confidence in this department must to be restablished before the people will willingly support an active, progressive program which will demand the early expenditure of many millions of dollars. I firmly believe that if such reorganization is accomplished as will lead the people to the belief that our laws are so perfected and guarded as to reasonably guarantee to them an economical and cautious expenditure of whatever funds they may provide, that then there will be no resitancy on their part to furnish all funds necessary to complete quickly a modern highway system throughout the Commonwealth. Until this is done, I am fearful that it means a development of slow order with unsatisfactory results.

3. I need hardly state that road building has two chief elements—one, the business side; and the other, the technical or engineering side, and that both of these elements, requiring such different types of mentality can rarely be found in one man, even were the combined duties not so generous as to be beyond the point of physical endurance.

I therefore, suggest that the Governor should appoint the State Highway Commissioner, who should be the executive head of the department, a man of proven business qualifications, and be paid a full-time salary commensurate with the result he is expected to produce. Then, the Governor to whom the people of the State are looking primarily for results, will be able to look to the commissioner and demand them of him, thus insuring individual responsibility—so essential to execution and the sine qua non of satisfactory achievements.

The Governor should also be allowed to appoint four other members who, along with the commissioner, as chairman, shall constitute what is to be known as the "State Highway Commission of Virginia." These men, removable at the pleasure of the Governor, should be selected from the five grand geographical divisions of the State, this giving to all sections a reasonable representation.

The four members of the State Highway Commission, other than the chairman, should be allowed as pay for their services a reasonable per diem and expenses for such time as they actually serve.

This commission should be allowed to locate routes between designated points in the highway system, routes already located in pursuance of law to be changed only by act of the General Assembly; to allocate funds to different road projects; to fix salaries, subject to executive approval, of the State highway engineer and other employes of the department; to approve contracts and to make traffic rules and regulations.

4. The State Highway Commissioner should be allowed to appoint the highway engineer, removable at his pleasure; thus giving him a person on whom there will rest individual responsibility for engineering and constructive results.

The engineer, with the same power of employment and removal, should be allowed to name those who are to work under him. This will create, from the Governor down, a complete chain of individual responsibility, which is absolutely essential and necessary in work of the character and nature to be done by the Highway Department.

Unless the Highway Commissioner were permitted to select his chief engineer, the scheme of accountability would be broken, and it would be difficult to find one who would assume the responsibility of results in the capacity of State Highway Commissioner if he were denied this privilege. In other words, the well-established law of responsibility of the subordinate to his immediate superior must prevail from the highest to the lowest official or employe of this department.

5. Under the preceding recommendation, each superior official or employe having the power to remove his immediate subordinate, the State is insured that it shall not suffer in the event an error is made in the selection of any employe; otherwise a mistake in judgment of selection would continue its evil effect until the expiration of a definite term of employment. No capable man would desire to continue in office if his services were not satisfactory and producing fruitful results.

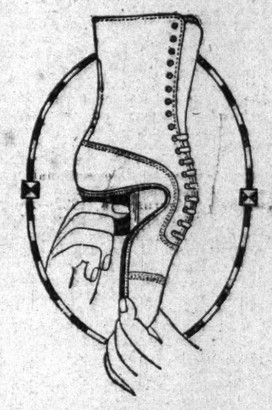
NEXT DOSE CALOMEL MAY SALIVATE YOU
It is Mercury, Quicksilver, Shocks Liver and Attacks Your Bones
Calomel salivation is horrible. It swells the tongue, loosens the teeth and starts rheumatism. There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel. It is a pleasant vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.
Calomel is a dangerous drug, besides it may make you feel sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than treacherous calomel your money is waiting for you.



I Would Rather Walk Than Ride
"Since I discovered Cantilever Shoes, I prefer to walk. You've seen children run just because they were too vigorous and happy to move slowly. Cantilevers brought back to me that joy in walking."
Ordinary shoes, with a rigid strip of steel hidden in the shank, bind the muscles and restrict the movement of the foot so that much of the natural grace and freedom of walking is gone. But the Cantilever Shoe has a flexible shank. It bends WITH the foot. It encourages the free, graceful movement of the foot. It strengthens the arch.

The last is sensible and becoming. It follows the outline of the foot, and so gives plenty of room for the toes. The natural inner sole line permits the foot to lie in a healthy position, with the toes pointing comfortably straight ahead. This feature, and the set of the smart, medium heel, encourage correct posture.
For the joy of comfortable walking, try a pair of Cantilevers this week.

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Mr R. Blackwell, of Rosemont, left this afternoon on a short business trip to Charlottesville.

The regular weekly meeting of Sarepta Lodge of Odd Felows will be held tonight.

Mr. V. Conway Ficklin, of Hazard, Ky., was the guest yesterday of Mr. James M. Rose, in this city.

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet in the Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow night.

The many friends of Mrs. Julia Travers will be pleased to know that she is recovering from her recent illness.

The Internal Revenue Office announces today, that from now until March 15, it will be open for Income Tax Returns.

Master Luther Hayden, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hayden, of 112 South Washington street, is confined to his home suffering from tonsilitis.

James H. Adams, Jr., colored, driver of the mail between this city and the Seminary, died yesterday evening at his home on Seminary Hill, Fairfax county.

Mr. T. M. Bickers, local manager for J. Leo Kolb, reports the sale of a new seven room house on Russell Road to Mr. and Mrs. James P Crawford. The house was formerly owned by F. C. Steizer, of Washington.

Mid-week prayer services will be held tonight in the Methodist Protestant Church. The pastor Rev. Robert Browne will take as his subject, "Builders in the Temple." A full attendance is requested.

The Gazette wishes to thank the committee in charge of the Valentine Costume Ball, which is to be given in Elks Hall tonight, for the tickets received at this office this morning.

Mr. Jerome Kaufmann several days ago slipped on a banana peeling while on King street and fell and had his right hand badly cut when a jar of milk he was carrying broke. He had three stitches taken in his hand.

Mr Ernest Padgett, a bricklayer, slipped on the ice yesterday and sustained a fractured leg. He was taken to the Alexandria Hospital where the injured member was reset by Dr. S. B. Moore.

Don't fail to enjoy the delicious chicken salad supper tomorrow night with old Virginia ham, at St. Paul's Church Parish Hall, Pitt street, near Duke. These suppers are held annually by the Rector's Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, and the large attendance is sufficient evidence of their popularity.

The Parent-Teachers Association of West End School met in its regular monthly session in that building yesterday afternoon. Business of the association was first disposed of. Then the subject of child welfare in relation to public schools was taken up, since Friday of this week has been designated as "Child Welfare Day," and discussed, supplimented by a report upon the outline of a program which has been approved and widely adopted. Following a short talk by Miss Mary D. Pierce, school supervisor of the city, the meeting adjourned.

Early this morning the merchants were literally besieged by hundreds of the ladies of Alexandria over the phone, asking if they could not continue their famous Dollar Day Sales till tomorrow night. The weather was so inclement that many were compelled to stay indoors With the unfailing courtesy for which our retail merchants are noted, they cheerfully granted the earnest and almost tearful requests. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good! Alexandria is lucky to have two Dollar Days instead of one, this time, and the sleet and snow and rain, and mushy streets will be more than compensated by the extra day allotted to money-saving!

visit to the White House these were the comments she made to the newspaper men:

"Your President is a most remark able man, one of such poise, and one who is easy to talk to. And what a perfect human being! And what a massive head he possesses. Twice as large as yours or mine."

She seemed exhausted after this statement and declared that she would have to rest for a moment. Continuing, she said:

"You Americans are too strong, too strenuous for we English. You seem to thrive on hot air."

She did not mean this last expression as a piece of slang, but some one of her listeners sugested that she visit Congress. But she declared that she had made no plans for a visit to Capitol Hill her own desire to gaze upon the statue of "Grief" erected in Rock Creek Cemetery and sculptured by the late St. Gaudens.

Before leaving the Executive offices, the President presented Mrs. Asquith with the reading copy of the speech he delivered at the closing of the Arms Conference on February 6.

"Wasn't it just delightful of him to do this for me," exclaimed the noted Englishwoman as she took her departure from the Executive Mansion

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear wife and mother, who departed this life one year ago today. February 14, 1921.

The month of February once more is here,
To us the saddest of the year,
For her memory is as dear today,
As in the hour she passed away.
Day by day we saw her fade,
And slowly pine away,
Yet in our hearts we often prayed,
That she might longer stay.
Through all her sufferings at times she smiled,
The smile of Heavenly birth
And when the angels called her home,
She smiled farewell to earth.

Mr. Monroe is stated, to have expressed his conviction a few days since, to one of the Foreign Ministers at Washington; that Peace would grow out of the pending negotiations at Gottenburg. Those who are influenced in their calculations by every idle word, which may chance to drop from officers of the government upon this interesting subject, will do well to remember; that only a week or two since, Mr. Monroe assured one of his acquaintances: that he had no expectation of peace from the mission of Europe.

WILL ADDRESS WOMEN

Dr. Dudding to Speak at 3:30 Tomorrow at Chamber of Commerce For Prisoner's Relief

Dr. E. E. Dudding, president of the Prisoner's Relief Society, with headquarters in Washington, at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will deliver an address on the work being accomplished by this organization before the women of the city. Representatives of the various women's organizations of the city are cordially invited to attend.

This organization has achieved considerable success since its inception and has been the cause of placing many former convicts on the right road. Dr. Dudding is head of the organization and is in closer touch with its work than any other individual connected with the organization. Already a number of citizens have become interested in the work and have paid annual dues to the local representative Mrs. A. C. Smythe who has been here for several weeks in the interest of this organization.

VALENTINE PARTY

Dance in Benefit of Hospital Bids Fair to be Success

The stage is set and all is in readiness for a care-free time at the Valentine costume ball to be given tonight under the auspices of the Auxiliary Board of the Alexandria Hospital in Elks' Hall. It is announced that mothers accompaning their children to the earlier part of the program, which will be given from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, will only be charged a small admission fee.

In the Gazette of yesterday it was erroneously stated that prizes would be given at the older dances. Prizes will only be given to the children attending in the earlier part of the evening. These prizes have been donated by S. F. Dyson and Bro., to whom the committee wishes to express its thanks. Others to whom they feel themselves indebted are; the florists, for flowers; High School orchestra members, who have consented to give their time and talent as a free donation to the hospital fund; and to all who have made an effort to make this affair successful.

Promptly at 7:30 the High School orchestra will begin its entertainment for the younger people and will continue until 9 o'clock. At 9 o'clock "Dutch" Whalen's orchestra will take over the musical end of the program, the dancers will come and, as usual, will engage in "light fantastic" until the musicians feel that it is time to play the tune—the bug-bear strain to every dances, that is "Home, Sweet Home." The dancing will end at one o'clock.

Yeast Vitamine Tablets should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron. Without organic iron, both food and Vitamines are absolutely useless, as your body cannot change inert, lifeless food into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood. Organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy. Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes thru your body without doing you any good.

the plan of other street lighting It also provides that forty-two ornamental steel poles thirty-five feet high be placed on King street, one in the center of each block on both sides and four at each corner.

Another ordinance in connection with the white way ordinance authorizes the public utilities to remove their poles from the thoroughfare proposed to be improved and providing their wires to be placed on the poles to be erected by the Alexandria County Lighting Company on terms agreeable to the last named company. This ordinance also was adopted by a vote of 12 to 2.

The construction of the proposed white way will cost $12,000 and sixty per cent of the cost will be borne by the Alexandria County Lighting Company and the remainder will be paid for by the merchants and property owners on the squares on which it will be located. A special committee of the chamber of commerce has secured eighty per cent of the signatures of those on that thoroughfare agreeing to pay $2 a front foot for the proposed improvement. The foregoing ordinances were recommended for passage by the joint committee on light, finance and streets.

A resolution appropriating the sum of $85,000 for the erection of a new public school building was recommended by the joint comittee on finance and schools and adopted with out a dissenting vote. An ordinance appropriating $15,000 a year to pay one half of the interest charges for the construction of the Little River Turnpike from this city to Fairfax Courthouse, a distance of fourteen miles, was referred to the joint committee on streets and finance.

A resolution of Councilman Baggett, presented January 24, authorizing the city to make a loan of $15,000 to pay indebtedness of the city gas plant for 1920 and 1921 was adopted

An adverse report was made by the joint committee on finance and general laws on the ordinance introduced in the board of aldermen by Alderman Summers to exempt all new buildings erected from January 1, 1921, to January 1, 1925, from city taxation the idea being to stimulate building in the city. The committee made its report on the ground that such action would be illegal and its report was adopted.

The sum of $1400 was appropriated to meet deficit in the annual appropriation for the fire department Bill of William Desmond for plumbing amounting to $254.05 was ordered paid. Permission was granted De Wilton Aitcheson to erect frame shed on the south side of the local wharf between Prince and Duke streets, and Mrs. Clay Phillips was authorized to make certain improvements to house on North Pitt street.

An ordinance defining what part for street improvements shall be paid by the city and what part paid by the property owners was referred to the joint committee streets and finance.

The report of Dr L. E. Foulks, city health officer, of the work accomplished by the health department during the month of January was received.

Richmond—One hundred and fifty three illicit stills were taken by federal prohibition agents during the month of January, according to Prohibition Director R. A. Fulwiler's report made to the bureau of internal revenue Friday. Ninety arrests were made in connection with the raids, and this work is regarded as the greatest acomplished since Mr. Fulwiler took office. The report also shows that 11 automobiles were confiscated and 318 1-2 gallons of liquor were seized and destroyed.

MRS. DAVIS IS HAPPY AS THE DAY IS LONG

Richmond Resident Was on Verge of Despair When She Began Taking Tanlac —Stomach Trouble and Rheumatism Quickly Ended.

"Tanlac certainly brought me health and happiness and my gratitude is unbounded," said Mrs. R. L. Davis, 308 North Twelfth Street, Richmond:

"I was almost in despair as a result of nearly two years stomach trouble. I don't believe anybody ever suffered from indigestion any worse than I did and to make matters worse, rheumatism took hold of me and I was confined to my bed for three months.

I had just about lost faith in everything, but fortunately, I decided to give Tanlac a trial. In a short time this medicine has made an absolute change in my condition. I'm well and strong today, free from all my old troubles and happy as the day is long."

Common Sense About Eczema and Eruptions!

Here's Something About S. S. S. That You'll Be Glad to Hear.

You might just as well know it right now,—the cause of skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, boils and so on, is right in the blood. There is no getting away from it. Science has proved it. We prove it. You can prove it.

When the cause of skin troubles and eruptions is in the blood, it isn't common sense to simply treat the skin. A bottle of S. S. S. will prove to you what is happening in your blood. S.S.S. is a scientific blood cleanser,—it drives out the impurities which cause eczema, tetter, rash, pimples, boils, blackheads, blotches and other skin eruptions. When these impurities are driven out, you can't stop several very nice things from happening. Your lips turn naturally rosy. Your eyes sparkle, your complexion clears. It becomes beautiful. Your face looks like that of a prosperous, ruddy, well-fed, refined gentleman, or if you are a woman, your complexion becomes the real kind that the whole world so admires. S.S.S. is also a powerful body-builder, because it builds new and more blood-cells. That's why it fills out sunken cheeks, bony necks, thin limbs, helps regain lost flesh. It costs little to have this happen to you. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Let S. S. S. Give You An Angelic Skin!

DIED

Mrs Margaret E. Wicker, the beloved wife of W. D. Wicker, who died at her residence, 203 South Lee street, Saturday, February 11, 1922, will be buried Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. from the Second Presbyterian Church, this city, the Rev. Dr. John L. Allison officiating.

Mrs. Wicker was born at Winton, Lancaster, England, June 24, 1859 She is survived by her husband, W. D. Wicker and three children, Kenneth W., Thomas C., and Ada M Wicker, all of this city, also two brothers and three sisters, Mr. Robert Coubourn, of Metheun, Mass., Mr. George Couburn, Mrs Roseanna Thomas, Mrs. Maurice Nutter, and Mrs. Charles Beadows, all of Nelson, Lancaster, England.

WHAT SHALL I DO WITH THEM?

Give them away—throw them away—sell them to old shoe dealers? Not a bit of it, dear lady. Bring them here and watch us transform those old, dilapidated, shapeless, apparently useless shoes into the finest looking footwear you ever saw. Don't believe we can do it? It will cost you nothing if we don't prove it to you.

The Home Coming of The American Doughboy

By ELLIOTT F. HOFFMAN
(Historian of Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion.)
(For the Alexandria Gazette.)

Cities and towns all over America were staging elaborate celebrations in honor of the doughboys' home coming; and since many of them, like Alexandria, had had no complete unit with the A. E. F., the date for the celebration was set for a time when the majority of the troops would reach home.

The idea of holding a celebration for Alexandria's returned soldiers originated with the Chamber of Commerce, and a committee composed of the following members of that body:

Robert S. Jones, chairmna.
Vice Chairmen, Judge S. G. Brent and J. Y. Williams.
Treasurer, Carroll Pierce.
Secretary, J. T. Preston.

Executive Committee:—Wallace Lindsey, C. C. Carlin, George D. Hopkins, Robert E. Knight, B. Weil, J. M. Duncan, Judge J. K. M. Norton, Samuel W. Pitts, H. A. Stewart, L. Ruben, Thomas C. Hoy, Claude W. Fletcher, T. E. Dyson O. H. Kirk, A. D. Brockett, Gardner L. Boothe, C. S. T. Burke M. T. Dwyer, Capt. W. H. Sweeney, Mrs. D. J. Howell, Miss Cora L. Cochran, Mrs. Carroll Pierce, Mrs. Julian Y. Williams, Miss Mary Lindsey, Mrs. J. E. Alexander, Mrs. E. H. O'Brien, Mrs. Taylor Burke, Miss Rose MacDonald, Mrs. Percy Evans, Miss Margaret E. Normoyle, Mrs. Rosenfeld, Miss Esther Green, Mrs. Louis N. Duffey, Miss Lida McLaughlin, Miss Helen N. Cummings, Col. J. H. Trimyer, W. C. Drury, K. W. Ogden, W. J. Mulligan Charles A. Howard, J. T. Harrison, E. R. Allen, H. A. Griffith H. A. Bales, G. R. Buddin, H. E. Gentry, Frank Steiner, William Hall, Herbert Mills, James A. Clark, A. J. Ross, Lindsay A. Howard, Frank Deeton, Frank Hall, J. S. Faulkner, Ernest Bragg, James Collins, J. S. Perry, met, and after long discussions, decided to bring to Alexandria a large carnival company. The plan was to distribute the various amusements on the main thoroughfare. The profits derived from the carnival were to go a fund to establish a permanent memorial, and, since many of our citizens had made liberal contributions toward the expenses of this "Mardi Gras," it was thought that these profits would be considerable.

On Sunday morning the carnival company arrived and made ready to "open store" on the various corners along King street. This street was gayly decorated with flaggs and bunting; electric lights were suspended across the street for many squares; here and there little service flags could be seen in the windows of the private homes; the whole town was ablaze with lights. Smiles wreathed the faces of our townspeople, a holiday spirit pervaded the air, and all, both young and old, seemed eager to join in the gayety of the coming morrow. Monday night came; our citizens turned out in large numbers on the "great white way," and joined in the fun.

At King and Commerce streets we stopped to watch the "Merry go Round," and it seemed to us that the whole Buffalo Division (colored troops), were lined up at the ticket window, intending to have a ride on the reindeers, bears, and all the other funny looking animals we saw standing ready to be mounted. Seeing no prospect of a ride, we passed on down the street, stopping at the first stand to arm ourselves with one of those "ticklers" so that we could "tickle" and be "tickled."

We were "hiking" on down King street when suddenly we heard a carnival hawker shouting, "Come on boys and shake a foot." At those familiar words we paused, and behold there was, in the vernacular of the showmen, a "forty-niner." We slipped in—and we quickly slipped out again.

Down at King and St. Asaph street we found the "Garden of Allah" show. A big crowd had gathered to hear the hawker explain the marvelous talents of "those beautiful girls you see before you, who have played before royalty." We followed the crowd in, and it was "some" show. Then out we rushed again to join the tickling brigade. At King and Royal street we found a long tent filled with "curiosities." On the outside the hawker had a monkey doing stunts, to the great amusement of the bystanders. After watching this for a few minutes, we headed for the Masonic Temple, where we found in progress a big reception, which was being given by that ancient craft for any and all of the returning boys. The first person we saw was "Sam" Pitts, the chairman, and we recalled that it was he who piloted the first Salvation Army drive in Alexandria. It was a real occasion. We heard beautiful music played by Miss Richards, then we heard "Bernie" Hamilton sing the song so popular with the A. E. F. And we had a few short speeches, then we "ate."

On another night we made our way to the Elks' Home, to the party given by our Godmother the Red Cross. The hall was packed to capacity. In the doorway we caught the sight of a very familiar face and heard a very familiar face and heard a very familiar voice—it was our old "pal" Krof James A. Lamb, of the 81st, or Wildcat Division. "Jimmie" was telling his auditors in no uncertain terms the various restrictions thrown round the doughboys, and, judging from the applause, his remarks were being confirmed by some of his listeners. There were more speeches of welcome, and of course we "ate;" for the Red Cross knew the doughboy well enough to know that he was always hungry. It was a very pleasant occasion, due largely to the efforts of Miss Mary Lindsay, under whose direction it was given, and it was just one more thing to bind our hearts to the Red Cross.

Saturday night was the big night. A block dance had been arranged and was to be held on Washington street between King and Prince. The Citizens' Band, composed of loyal townsmen, who gave their time and talent for the asking, rendered the jazz music, and every one, both old and young, hopped and skipped and jumped until the chimes pealed forth the midnight hour. An interesting interlude occurred just before the dance was over, when two of our veterans differed on the questions as to who won the war. They declared war immediately on each other, and war was raging, when suddenly from around the corner came one of Mayor Fishers' M. P's. who immediately captured the combatants, declared an armistice, and conducted his prisoners back of the lines to the "Hoosgow."

The welcome home week closed in a blaze of glory. A fairly good sum had been realized and was turned over to the Citizens' National Bank to be held in trust for the memorial fund. The soldiers who could, found work both from necessity and in order to forget those heart-rendering and harrowing experiences of battle, and surely they would all say, "Long live the dove of peace."

"UNCLE JOE" IS TO RETIRE

Veteran Member of House Will Not Seek Re-Election

Nearly Eighty-Six Years Old—Holds House Record for Length of Service

Washington, Feb. 15.—Having served longer than any other man ever elected to the American Congress, Representative Joseph G. Cannon, of the Eighteenth Illinois district, announced yesterday that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself next fall.

Mr. Cannon is approaching his eighty-sixth milestone. If his life is spared until the end of his term March 4, 1923, he will have rounded out 46 years of service in the House. He broke the record for actual service more than a year ago and since that time, as he himself has explained, he "has been running along on velvet."

There were tears in eyes of many of his colleagues when formal announcement of "Uncle Joe's" determination to retire was made on the floor by Representative Walsh, Republican, Massachusetts, described by the veteran legislator as "one of my buddies." While Mr. Walsh was speaking, Uncle Joe, sitting apart from his friends, was crouched in a seat, a big slouch hat and an overcoat protecting him from the cold.

Believing always in brevity, Mr. Cannon's statement that he was soon to conclude his public service was packed into one typewritten line of 11 words. Two days ago, when asked if he again would enter the primary, he declined to say, adding that his desision would be known later.

"Uncle Joe's" family, it is understood, has been urging him to quit Congress and return to his old home at Danville, there to pass the rest of his life in peace and quite. As a man long accustomed to battles in Congress the former Speaker at first rebelled, but finally he consented. While he still appears as vigorous as 10 years ago, he is more feeble, his eyes more dim, and he seldom is seen as of old, biting constantly on the end of a cigar.

To Decide Baby's Mother

District Woman Judge Confronted by Problem Which Puzzled Solomon

Washington, Feb. 14.—Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the District of Columbia Juvenile Court, must decide which is the mother of Donato Matteo or David Peck, Mrs. Maria Antonio Mateo or Mrs. Etta Peck, of Washington.

Mrs. Matteo claims that she gave birth to the baby July 31, 1921, and Mrs. Peck asserts that the stork brought him to her September 14.

Upon the birth of the Matteo infant Mrs. Matteo advertised for some one to adopt it, owing to the fact that she had too many other children to give it proper care. Mrs. Peck adopted the baby but later claimed it was her own, Mrs. Matteo contends.

The baby has been moved from place to place, and Mrs. Matteo is trying to get possession of it, charging that it is not being properly cared for.

Judge Sellers is to be the Solomon on March 1.

Mrs. Peck was formerly Mrs. Etta Farrer Shields, and lived for a number of years at Braddock.

Bishop Williams Lauds Ex-President Wilson

"Woodrow Wilson is the greatest prophet and seer of this age," declared Bishop Charles D. Williams, of Michigan, in an address last night at the annual meeting of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches held in Bates Hall, 316 Huntington Avenue. "Other men loom large but they shrink in comparison with Wilson," said Bishop Williams. "He will grow bigger as we get the perspective of history."

If the United States would end war, Bishop Williams said, we must be in a conert of nations no matter what name it may be called, Europe, he said, is not only physically bankrupt, but morally bankrupt also and that this moral breakdown is in a great measure the fault of America. The people of Europe say that America went back on her word in refusing to join the League of Nations and they have lost faith in this country.

Other speakers were the Rev. Ernest Graham Guthrie, president of the association, who presided, and Dr. Doremus Scudder, executive secretary of the association.—Boston Post.

Marie—"Full of ideas, isn't it?"

A Goosander Wanders to the End-of-the-Earth.

"GOOSEY, goosey, gander. Whither do you wander?" Pimzie sang out to a very tired looking bird that had straggled to the End-of-the-Earth.

"Oh, I am so tired of that rime!" was the annoyed answer. "It seems as though, no matter where I go, no matter whom I see, every one—absolutely every one—sings that to me. I hate it."

"Oh, very well," Pimzie cried in distress. "I really am very sorry that I sang it. But you are a Goose, aren't you, and you are wandering, aren't you?"

"Well, what if I am? People don't have to sing songs about it. As long as you ask me, I am not a Goose. I am a Goosander, but I am not wandering or lost. Isn't this the End-of-the-Earth?"

Pimzie nodded.

"Well," said the Goosander. "I have come here to see Stella, the Wishing Fairy, for I have a wish that I hope she can make come true. Do you think she will?"

"I am very sure she will," the little Brownie hastened to say, for Mr. Goosander looked so worried that Pimzie felt quite sorry for him. "I'll go fetch her."

The large bird waddled over to the Get Little Pool, took a big sip of the cool water, preened his feathers a bit and swam around until he felt refreshed. Of course as soon as he drank from the magic pool he instantly became very tiny, but he was so interested and expectant that he never even noticed it, and when he saw Stella coming in his direction he was too excited to stay on the ground, but spread his powerful wings and flew to meet her.

"There are lots of things I wish for," he told her. "I want a long, curved beak, at least I want the upper part of the bill to curve over the lower, and I'd like it to be bright red, and I also want a glossy green head, and I'd like my wings to be shining black and to have white breast feathers. Will you do all this for me? Please."

GOOSANDER

There was really no need for him to beg so hard, for the little Fairy already was waving her magic star wand over his head, and even as he spoke Mr. Goosander became all the many things he wanted.

"But tell me," Stella asked after he had thanked her, "why do you want a hooked beak?"

"That is easily answered," returned the happy bird. "We Goosanders eat nothing but fish, and they are awfully slippery and hard to catch. A hooked beak will make life much easier, I shall hurry home and show myself to my wife."

"What is she like?"

"She is smaller than I am and is ashy gray and has a brownish head. You know she's a very busy little creature. Shall I tell you about her?"

Stella smiled and nodded.

"Last month," said the Goosander, "she and I chose the loveliest deep hole in a tree and in it we built a very comfortable nest. Then Mrs. Goosander laid ten creamy white eggs. As soon as they hatched she and I carried our baby birds in our bills to the water and taught them to swim. They are hungry little fellows and eat more fish than I can possibly catch. That's why I wished for this hooked beak. It will help lots!"

"When you reach home you will find that Mrs. Goosander also has one. I have sent it to her," said the Fairy with a smile.

The bird was so delighted that he plucked a tiny white feather from his breast and held it out to Stella.

"This," he said with a bow, "is a little present for you. I want you to use it as a fan."

Coles Scholarship

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 14.—Establishment of the Edward Coles Scholarship at the College of William and Mary by a gift of $2,000 from Miss Mary Roberts Coles and Mrs. Geo. S. Robbins, of Philadelphia, was announce dtoday by President Chandler

Miss Coles and Mrs. Robbins have founded the scholarship as a memorial to their grandfather, an alumnus of William and Mary, who was governor of Illinois. Their donation adds another to the growing list of scholarships being established at Virginia's oldest college by descendants of the early Virginians who attended William and Mary, and who attained eminent rank in the Commonwealth and the nation.

Edward Coles, who was born in 1786, in Albemarle County, served for six years as private secretary to James Madison, President of the United States. The possesor of a large plantation, he had a notable correspondence with Thomas Jefferson in 1814, regarding the emancipation of slaves, and was urged by Jefferson to take the lead in the cause of emancipation. Shortly afterwards, he went to Russia as a special envoy of President Madison. Later, he transferred all his slaves westward and set them free, unconditionally, on thir arrival in Illinois, deeding to each adult slave of 21 years, 160 acres of land. After serving under President Monroe as Registrar of the Government Land Office in Edwardsville, Ill., Mr. Coles was elected in 1822, Governor of the State of Illinois.

When his gubernatorial term was finished there, Governor Coles retired to his farm, where in 1831, he organized the first agricultural society in Illinois, soon afterward removing to Philadelphia, where he married Miss Sally Logan Roberts. He died in 1868. Governor Coles is regarded by Illinois people as one of the most outstanding and most courageous characters ever engaged in its political affairs, A noted painting of him is preserved in the Illinois Capitol His activities saved Illinos from becoming a slave state

In a letter to President Chandler, enclosing a check for the scholarship, Miss Coles said that the interest of herself and her sister had been attracted to William and Mary through a communication of Fairfax Harrison, President of the Southern Railway, and Chairman of the Virginia Committee of the William and Mary Endowment Fund. She stated that four grandsons of Governor Coles are living—the sons of Mrs. Robbins.

Northern Pacific Before She Took Death Plunge

A remarkable scene from one of the rescue ships showing the Northern Pacific afire at sea, with the smoke and flames pouring from her decks and portholes as the big boat began to list. She burned to the water's edge and sank. Of the crew of twenty-four twenty were saved at once and four adrift in a long lifeboat were rescued hours later. A forty-mile gale fanned the blaze and added to the peril of the rescues. It is suspected that a firebug aboard the vessel probably before she left Brooklyn, was responsible for the blaze, The ship, which sank off Cape May, N. J., was of 8,256 tons and was one of the fastest American merchantmen.

Farm Expert, Who Is Helping to Buy Grain for Hungry Russians

This Commission is now engaged, in conjunction with the American Relief Administration, in purchasing, shipping and distributing food and seed wheat and corn for the Russian famine sufferers.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce and chairman of the American Relief Administration, is head of the Commission. Other members are Former Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, E. M. Flesh, treasurer of the U. S. Grain Corporation, and Edgar Rickard, director of the ARA.

Under the provisions of the act, signed by the President, appropriating $20,000,000 for Russian relief, large quantities of food and grain have been bought and at present are being rushed by ships to Russian ports, where the American Relief Administration is handling the distribution.

The Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief is bending every effort towards facilitating the speedy shipment of the needed commodities to the famine regions. Large quantities of supplies, grown and purchased in America are being sent as fast as American ships can be chartered and loaded.

Secretary Hoover has announced that 3,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped as of January 25th and instructions given to rush the shipment of further cargoes.

He Is Aiding in the Relief of Russia's Famine Sufferers

ACTIVE in the work of the American Relief Administration, which is now engaged in carrying out its program of feeding the famine-stricken in Russia, is Edgar Rickard, director of the ARA, whose headquarters are at 42 Broadway, New York City.

"Our purpose is to save the lives of as many of these suffering unfortunates as possible," says Mr. Rickard, who is also a member of the Purchasing Commission for Russian relief, appointed by President Harding shortly after the signing of the $20,000,000 Russian relief appropriation.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the ARA, is the head of the Commission. Other members are former Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, Don Livingston, a representative of the Farm Bureau and State Agricultural Commissioner for South Dakota, and E. M. Flesh, treasurer of the U. S. Grain Corporation.

The Purchasing Commission for Russian Relief is bending every effort towards facilitating the speedy shipment of the needed commodities to the famine regions. Large quantities of supplies, grown and purchased in America are being sent as fast as American ships can be chartered and loaded.

Secretary Hoover has announced that 3,000,000 bushels of grain have been shipped as of January 25th and instructions given to rush the shipment of further cargoes.
